

Carvel Bringing Jobs to New Britain

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. -- A corporation announced that it will move to New Britain Wednesday and that it is in need of hundreds of workers.

The Carvel Corporation announced that it will build a state-of-the-art, 120,000 square-foot factory on a 13.5-acre site where Fafnir Bearings once stood.

"I think it's particularly fitting that the site once housed the glory days of New Britain's industrial past -- a new manufacturing era emerges," said Mayor Tim Stewart.

